Im challenge was Sharing my room with my brother.

I had to give up some of my stuff
so that he could bring his stuff in.

We have to share every thing we have. It is okay but some times we fite becuase he Likes other stuff then I do so we have to deal with it.

We Love to hang out with echother
we have a Lot in comen becuae we are brothers and best freinds.

He Likes musice and I like motorcross But we still have some thing in comen.

I have had many challenges in my life. But one sticks out in my mind. The first time I pitched a baseball, in a game. It was an extraordinary day with puffy white clouds. I was called to the mound which is where pitchers throw the ball. I was scared that I would do bad. But I didn't. I was throwing strikes left and right. I got five or six people out in three innings.

I was doing good until a huge kid came up to bat. I started to fret and he hit a home run off me. That was bad but the next time he came up to bat I struck him out. The game was almost over and my team was winning by 1. There was a man on third with two outs. I got tense and threw a ball. I threw a ball again. Then I threw a strike and then another. I was one strike away from a win. I went into my windup and threw a ball but the kid swung at it and it was a strike. We won! That was a good experience but a big challenge.

I had faced someone last year, but we are doing it this year. Now writing a report on it today. I'm trying to do my best and I'm trying to get a good grade. But I will get a good grade on this. And want to get a good grade. But if I don't get a good grade. But if I don't get a good grade I guess I have to get the book back. But if I get a good grade I will go to sixth grade.

My family loves to downhill ski. I have been skiing since I was one. Right now I am on the verge of becoming an aggressive skier. Last winter I joined the Ski Team. I have been loving it.

My first race was going to be a challenge. I had never raced in a real race before. What would the race be like? How long would the course be? Would I win? Will I enjoy it? What if I mess up? What if I miss a gate? Question after question ran through my head when I first discovered I was to be entered in a race. I was very excited, but I was also scared.

To prepare for the race we cranked up the practice a notch. We skied hard. We practiced skiing through gates. We timed ourselves. We worked hard skiing, and the coaches worked hard helping us ski. I was getting better. I was going to go to that race and try my best.

The day of the race came. We went to the ski hill. We got our "stuff" on. Next we went outside with our coaches to do a little skiing before the race. We skied through the course. Now it was time to race. When the beeper went off I zoomed down the hill as fast as I could go. That felt good.

After the race I did a few runs to relax. Then I went in for lunch. When we were done with lunch I went out to check the results. I was not the fastest, but I was not the slowest. I was right in the middle. That was great for my first race. Now I have raced in many races. I even have a race suit. Racing is no longer a challenge.
